The School

The Tecnológico de Monterrey was founded in 1943 due to the vision of Eugenio Garza Sada and a group of businessmen who formed a non-profit association called Enseñanza e Investigación Superior, A. C. The Tecnológico de Monterrey is a private, non-profit institution which is independent and not related to any political party or religious group.

The work of the Tecnológico de Monterrey and of all of its campuses is supported by civil associations made up of a large group of outstanding leaders from all parts of the country, who are committed to quality in higher education.

The prestige that the Tecnológico de Monterrey has enjoyed since its beginnings, not only for its academic level but also for the culture of entrepreneurship, hard work, efficiency and responsibility it promotes in its students, has motivated its graduates from different regions of the country to promote the formation of campuses of the Tecnológico de Monterrey in their native cities.

The City

Monterrey is the third largest city of Mexico, considered as a world class destination due to its high quality level in tourist services. Its great ground and air connectivity, world class venues and its wide touristic infrastructure (106 hotels with more than 10,500 rooms) convert this city in one of the most important hosts for organizing congresses and conventions.

According to a Mercer Human Resources study (2005), Monterrey is known for being Latin America's most secure city. It also holds the largest number of schools, institutes, universities, technical and higher education centers per capita in the country. Thousands of foreign students live in Monterrey, making the city full of life and diversity.
